DA CONCLUDES SHOOTING DEATH OF CHRISTIAN GUTIERREZ-ROSADO WAS JUSTIFIED

York, PA – Following a thorough investigation by the York City Police Department, the April 10, 2019 shooting death of Christian Ivan Gutierrez-Rosado, at 702 W. Princess St. has been ruled a justifiable homicide.

Investigators were able to determine that the decedent broke in to the residence through an upstairs window. Upon entering the residence, the decedent physically assaulted a resident inside 702 W. Princess St. It was at this time, that the resident fired one shot, fatally injuring Gutierrez-Rosado. It should be further noted that the decedent had been previously charged with Felony strangulation against one of the residents and was not to be located on that property.

District Attorney Dave Sunday said, “I would like to thank the York City Police Department for its quick work and determination in bringing this incident to a close.”
